

THE 27TH ANNUAL GRADUATE STUDENT CONFERENCE

NUJMA BOND
Manager of communication
The Royal Canadian Legion

Nujma Bond is an established communications professional and journalist with a history of leading national initiatives and teams, and a wide-ranging writing portfolio.

She has held managerial and directorial roles at several high-profile and national scope organizations including The Mental Health Commission of Canada and the Conference Board of Canada. She currently oversees communications including media relations for the National Headquarters of The Royal Canadian Legion, and acts as its spokesperson. Previously Nujma was a television news journalist in Western Canada. She anchored news programs and produced an infinite variety of stories through recorded and live interviews with unique individuals, leaders, and celebrities.

Nujma speaks English and French and has studied Spanish and Japanese. She holds degrees in Science, Journalism, and an advanced certificate in Public Relations Management among other educational pursuits.

Fortunate to have lived in or visited every Canadian province - and all but one territory - she revels in exploring new destinations and cultures within Canada and beyond.
