Council on Foreign Relations

Christina Bouri is a research associate for Middle East studies at the Council on Foreign Relations. Before joining the Council, she interned at Harvard's Middle East Initiative and was a senior staff writer for the Harvard Journal of Middle Eastern Politics and Policy. She holds a bachelor's degree in international relations from the University of the Pacific, where she spent a year studying at the University of Jordan in Amman, and a master's in Middle Eastern Studies from Harvard University. At the Council, her interests lie at the intersection of migration and humanitarian crises induced by climate change and political instability. Her most recent work has focused on the ongoing war in Gaza and the implications of the climate crisis on human security in the Middle East. She is a native speaker of Arabic and is proficient in French.
