TREVOR J. NEIMAN

Country Manager for Canada and International Associate General Counsel

Strider Technologies

Trevor J. Neiman is Country Manager for Canada and International Associate General Counsel at Strider Technologies, the leading provider of strategic intelligence. Neiman leads Strider's Canadian strategy to continue driving market growth, strategic partnerships, and client engagement. Neiman also supports Strider's global legal and regulatory work, including the advancement of economic security initiatives. Neiman joined Strider from the Business Council of Canada, where he served as Vice President of Policy and General Counsel, working closely with senior business executives and government leaders on issues at the intersection of business, geopolitics, and national security. During his tenure, Neiman positioned the Business Council as Canada's leading voice on economic security and played a key role in advancing major national security reforms. This included modernizing the legislative framework governing the Canadian Security Intelligence Service to enable enhanced intelligence-sharing with the private sector to strengthen the business community's resilience against economic security threats. Previously, Neiman worked as a technology and regulatory lawyer at a leading international law firm. While completing his law degree, Trevor served as a legal advisor to a Canadian senator and to a bi-national regulatory agency. Before becoming a lawyer, Trevor worked in public policy in the Ontario Public Service, and as an advisor for the Canadian Council for Public-Private Partnerships. Neiman is a licensed lawyer and certified privacy professional. He holds several degrees including a Bachelor of Arts (honours) in Political Studies from Queen's University, a Master of Public Administration from Queen's University, and a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Ottawa Faculty of Law, where he graduated Magna Cum Laude.
