The Fellowship Programme

DR. JOAKIM BERNDTSSON
Professor in the School of Global Studies
University of Gothenburg

Joakim Berndtsson is Professor in the School of Global Studies, University of Gothenburg, and a researcher at the Swedish Centre for Studies of Armed Forces and Society (CSMS). He is also Co-Director of the Military Personnel theme for the Civil-Military Relations Network (CMRN), funded by SSHRC and hosted by Carleton University. His research examines whole-of-society defence and security arrangements, particularly Swedish and Nordic total defence planning and organisation, civil-military collaboration, military professionalism, military–society relations, and public opinion on defence and security policy. With Irina Goldenberg and Stéfanie von Hlatky, he co-edited Total Defence Forces in the Twenty-First Century (McGill-Queen's University Press, 2023) and is currently co-editing Reserves at the Ready (forthcoming with Springer). He is principal investigator of a Swedish Research Council project on civil-military collaboration in Scandinavian total defence and participates in a Swedish Armed Forces-funded project on military professionalism and public opinion. Berndtsson has contributed to several briefings on whole-of-society defence in Canada, for instance to the DND MINDS Expert Briefing series.